June Report

Unfortunately, June has proved to be just as difficult a month to market wool as it has with other months for some time. The unknown from week to week, even when some suspect a solid market may give some respite, generally this hasn't eventuated, and it leaves everyone second guessing. Some very moderate quantities, apart from this week just completed, didn't alleviate the market sliding.

As difficult as it seems for brokers/clients, exporters are still struggling to acquire letters of credit to participate as keenly as they would like, with a very large portion of sales being shipped to China for the local domestic market. Only in the past couple weeks have some very small purchases been transacted for some European businesses.

The crucial time-line seems to be the spring selling period after the recess to ascertain where the market will go. Quantities will play a major component as the stockpile in brokers stores is much greater when compared to previous years.

To finish this report some statistics from the season.
